Dear Parents and Carers,

Anti-Bullying Week – Andy and the Odd Socks

On Monday 7th November, Andy Day (from Andy and the Odd Socks) is coming to visit Brookburn to run an assembly as part of Anti-Bullying Week.

Andy will be talking to the children about Odd Socks Day, as well as performing a few songs.

Andy and the Odd Socks are incredibly proud to be patrons of the Anti-Bullying Alliance (ABA) and have been working with this incredible charity since 2017.

Odd Socks Day was created in partnership with the ABA for Anti-Bullying Week, for children to be able to wear odd socks to school in celebration of their individuality. Everyone is different and everyone is equal and Odd Socks Day is the perfect way to highlight that in a very simple fun way for children.

Brookburn will be celebrating Odd Socks Day on Monday 14th November (reminders to follow).

This year “Reach Out” has been chosen by the ABA as the theme for Anti-Bullying Week, and Andy will be raising awareness by reaching out to individuals, organisations and celebrities asking them to join him in supporting this campaign.

We hope that this will give the children a fun and informative assembly on the 7th and help highlight the important messages behind Odd Socks Day.

Kind regards,

Miss Kingsford
Unicef Lead
